HKU Libraries is Second in WorldCat’s Top Ten

Anthony Ferguson

We were pleasantly surprised to learn last month that HKU Libraries is the 2nd largest contributor of original cataloguing records for the year to the WorldCat database of the Online Computer Library Consortia, a membership organisation made up of 50,540 libraries in 84 countries. Our 45,758 records submitted to this database provided a large revenue to the Libraries, and also placed us ahead of such famous and large libraries as the Library of Congress, the British Library, etc. The University of Oxford Library came third with 39,322 records, HKU Libraries second, and the Center for Research Libraries (USA) placed first with 63,549 records. For the second year in a row, our contribution has exceeded 40,000. This is a reflection of the massive amount of work that our Technical Services staff members are able to do year after year.

With severe budget cuts, this high contribution of unique records is one way that HKU Libraries is able to claw back some of the costs, and in some cases, pay completely for some of the many services we subscribe to and offer our users.

With over 12,000 libraries contributing records to WorldCat, and with over 53 million records, this database is the de facto worldwide union catalogue. When searching WorldCat, the record is usually already entered. With so many contributors and so many libraries buying and cataloguing the same materials, it is very rare for libraries to enter so many unique records in the way that HKU Libraries has done and continues to do. We have been able to do this because the nature of our contributed records is relatively rare compared to other would-be contributors to WorldCat. We are the largest cataloguer of Chinese materials in WorldCat. We are the largest cataloguer of Chinese ejournals and ebooks in WorldCat. On the other hand, for most of our English language materials, instead of contributing records, we download records from WorldCat.

As the largest and premier cataloguing database of the world, WorldCat allows contributing members such as HKU Libraries to share resources worldwide with other libraries and universities. In this manner we can increase HKU’s reputation and further fulfill its mission of disseminating knowledge. End-users use WorldCat for information discovery. Upon finding that it resides in HKU Libraries, they can visit the Libraries, request inter-library loan, and now increasingly, simply click to connect to the resource at HKU Libraries. WorldCat is now searchable through Yahoo and Google, which means that HKU Library records will begin to appear in these two giant search engines.

On top of this 45,758 unique records added to WorldCat, HKU Libraries sent 350,000 records last year to OCLC so that our retrospective collection of Chinese materials also could be shown in WorldCat. Records for our western language materials had been sent the year previous.

These numbers are very surprising in light of the events our Technical Services staff members have experienced in the last two years. We lost several key staff due to the University’s voluntary retirement scheme. Consequently, we restructured Technical Services and rationalised its workflow. These numbers show that these changes have worked very well indeed!

Daffodils
24 January – 23 February 2005

To celebrate the Lunar Spring Festival, the Libraries selected various famous paintings, poems about the most popular and most conspicuous of spring bulbs, the daffodils. Exhibits included poems such as the "Shuixian Huafu" by the outstanding Qing dynasty author Gong Zizhen at the age of 13 and "Daffodils" by William Wordsworth. Photographs, books, slides, songs sheets and other interesting exhibits were displayed.

Public Transport in Hong Kong
25 February – 3 April 2005

The exhibition traced the development and means of public transport over the past century in Hong Kong from sedan chairs, rickshaws, railways, buses, MTR to the Light Rail Transit. The exhibits included the old bus fares, various types of MTR tickets, information on how to travel via MTR, bus and trains schedules etc. The exhibits were loaned by Mr David Au.

READ
4 – 29 April 2005

The exhibition displayed specially designed READ posters of the Reading Club speakers and moderators with their recommended book.

Established in 2002, the Reading Club sponsors book talks featuring leading members of Hong Kong intellectual community as speakers or moderators, recommending an interesting book to the Hong Kong University community and Friends.

The motto of the HKUL Reading Club is "Interesting people talk about books that interest them."

Climate and Sea Level Changes in Hong Kong during the Past 500,000 Years
10 January – 6 February 2005

The exhibition, a 10th Anniversary Celebration event of the Department of Earth Sciences explained the climate and sea level changes in Hong Kong. It highlighted the findings of the research by Dr W. W. S. Yim from the Department of Earth Sciences. A number of geological specimens, together with posters, were displayed.

The History of Psychoanalysis in France
(精神分析学在法國)
21 February – 13 March 2005

This exhibition, originally curated by Yann Diener in France, was mounted in collaboration with Dr Geoffrey Blowers, Department of Psychology to celebrate the “Year of France in China”. It presented a history of psychoanalytic activities in France. Books on this topic were also displayed.

Old Verses, New Images (古詩今話)
29 March – 28 June 2005

The exhibition showed twenty-seven original oil paintings by Mr Joseph Lee (李超鵬), each with its accompanying old verse. Mr Joseph Lee, a 1961 graduate of HKU, has held many exhibitions, both in Hong Kong and overseas.
Professor Frank Dikotter talked about his book Narcotic Culture: a History of Drugs in China, with Dr Cunich as the moderator on 24 February 2005.

Ms Christine Loh (陸恭蕙女士) shared with the audience her experience in reading Robert Service’s Lenin: a Biography with Dr Share as the moderator on 9 March 2005.

Mr Mathias Woo (胡恩威先生) gave a talk on his new book 香港風格 on 7 April 2005.
The University of Hong Kong Libraries has acquired a segment of the largest commercial collection of Chinese ebooks in the world. The SuperStar Digital Library of more than 800,000 books published in China from the earliest times to the present.

The Libraries’ subscription to 280,000 titles, accessible to all staff and students of the University of Hong Kong is an important resource for faculty and students doing research on China.

The SuperStar Digital Library has an extensive collection of books and periodicals published since 1949 including manuscripts and letters from Chairman Mao Zedong as well as a treasury of rare documents from the Ming and Ching epochs. A wide range of subjects are covered including chemical engineering, Chinese history, economics, law, mathematics, medicine, philosophy, politics and world history.

At the ribbon cutting ceremony on the 22 March 2005, Professor Richard Wong, Deputy Vice-Chancellor welcomed the guests, Dr Anthony Ferguson, the University Librarian spoke about the differences of e-books in the East and West and Mr Zhu Ping, General Manager of the SuperStar Digital Library talked about the development of SuperStar.

“This is a first for Hong Kong,” said Dr Anthony Ferguson, the University Librarian. “The many thousands of books and manuscripts in this database come to us from all parts of China and from all eras. Using digital preservation and publishing techniques, these books can be read from every terminal in the University. They are a wonderful resource for Chinese Studies and for comparative research on China’s historical, social and economic development.” Dr. Ferguson concluded, “I’m sure that the SuperStar Digital Library will become one of the most valued resources offered by the library.”

HKUL as a Mirror Site

Speaking on the occasion, Mr Walter Chow, iGroup (Asia Pacific) Hong Kong Manager said, “I am delighted that the University of Hong Kong Libraries is the pioneer subscriber in Hong Kong to the SuperStar Digital Library. This digital collection offers a wealth of important research materials which will enrich the academic life of the University.” He continued, “This collection will be mirrored on a HKUL server which means that other libraries in Hong Kong will soon be able to subscribe to it and enjoy quick and easy access as well as a very reliable service.”

Mr Zhu Ping, General Manager, SuperStar Digital Library, Beijing said, “I am delighted that a key institution of the region, the University of Hong Kong Libraries, is hosting our database for local research communities. This is a milestone for the SuperStar Digital Library.”

The Hong Kong University Libraries began the electronic thesis programme in 2000. The Libraries now has digitised hundreds of HKU e-theses, thousands of e-theses from China, and more than 30,000 e-theses done in the West. In order to increase the number of HKU e-theses, we recently posted letters to our alumni asking them for permission to digitise their theses and make them available on the web globally for purposes of research and scholarship. We have received 1,000s of positive responses so far! Unfortunately we have also received many "return to sender" replies from post offices around the world. Therefore we are now sending out these letters by email in hopes that we might receive even more responses showing their permission to this programme.

We are asking that alumni send us their source files, such as in MS Word, so that we might easily convert or reformat their source files to text-embedded PDFs. Alternatively, we can scan their library held theses to create image-only PDFs.

If you are an alumni from HKU in a thesis producing degree and wish to participate in this programme, could you please contact David Palmer for more particulars, dtpalmer@hkucc.hku.hk.
The Confidentiality Clause in License Agreements for Electronic Resources

Janny Lai
Electronic Resources Acquisitions Coordinator

Imagine that you are shopping for a new G3 phone. A retailer says he’ll sell it to you at a special price of $2,000 but you can’t tell others what you’ve paid. He also asks you to sign a non-disclosure agreement that stipulates various penalties if the price is disclosed. You ask him why and he explains that this is to allow flexibility in his pricing – in other words, so that he can sell it to different customers at different prices, and in this case sell it to you at the lowest price. Will you buy the phone? Or will you tell the retailer that he is out of his mind and you’re going to find another retailer?

You’re probably not familiar with the above situation. After all, most vendors wouldn’t dare to suggest a non-disclosure agreement, and most of us assume that we have the right to shop around, compare prices, and discuss options with friends and family, whether we are shopping for a car, a house, a mortgage plan, an insurance policy or planning a wedding banquet. In fact, we would be considered ignorant consumers if we didn’t do so.

Unfortunately for librarians, however, many database vendors and publishers have devised licensing agreements for their electronic resources that include non-disclosure clauses like the following (only slightly modified):

The subscriber agrees that it will not use or disclose information relating to pricing terms and other business arrangements governed by this Agreement. The vendor may terminate this Agreement if there is a breach of the confidentiality provisions of this Agreement.

How did we librarians come to sign away our rights as consumers as we migrated to the electronic information world from the world of print? In the case of non-disclosure, many librarians have only grudgingly accepted the new terms, though some agree with vendors that non-disclosure allows them to secure the best prices.

In the February 2004 issue of D-Lib Magazine, Philip Davis describes a scenario where persons A and B are to share a lump sum of money, but only A knows how much there is to share. This means that A can give B $20 out of $100, and B might still feel that he is getting a fair share of the money. This is the situation for libraries, as Davis points out: “If you don’t know that someone else got a better deal, and the publisher gave you the impression that you fought them every step of the way, you may believe that you got a fair deal; that is, of course, until you find out that someone got a better deal”.

Some states in the United States have freedom of information laws for public institutions, making non-disclosure a non-issue and allowing libraries to empower themselves as informed consumers in the information market. Since “knowledge is power” – we are probably putting ourselves at a great disadvantage in the long run if we seek only to bargain individually with vendors for isolated ‘good deals’ for our own institutions. Hopefully, a more altruistic or at least fair policy of open pricing and market transparency will become more common as time goes by. Perhaps only then will vendors stop playing games and take the effort to find out what their products are truly worth.

Building our Community with Subject Blogs

Gayle Chan
Collection Development Librarian

What is a blog?

A blog, derived from the term “web log”, is an online journal with generally frequent, brief postings, often in reverse chronological order with a time/date stamp. For a long time, the HKU Libraries has posted news on its Home Page. With a blog, it enables us to post news online more quickly.

What is in a Subject Blog?

The Collection Development Department is pleased to announce the launch of its Subject Blogs on 23 March. Our blogs are useful sources written and maintained by the Collection Development Department, where our Hong Kong University Community can keep up to date with news about subject related resources, services, events, and more.

Recent postings to the Subject Blogs include:

- ArchitectureWeek: An online magazine of design and building
- Literature -- The Darwin Correspondence Project
- Asia’s tsunami: the impact: a 28-page report from the EIU
- Psychology -- The American Psychoanalyst
- Science -- Measuring loss of biodiversity the expert way
- You now have access to -- Science Express
- Don’t forget: Your institution is a BioMed Central member
- CELT, the Corpus of Electronic Texts

Why do you want to read a Subject Blog?

Each Subject Blog provides current awareness into recently acquired or existing information resources held by the Libraries. You will be kept informed about recent library acquisitions in all formats; updates or enhancements to electronic resources; conferences, seminars, and other events; useful websites; and more. Postings are displayed in reverse chronological order to give you easy access to the most recent developments.

A link to our email address appears in each Subject Blog to provide the opportunity for instant feedback. So be sure to let us know your comments on any of the information or resources provided.

How can you find out more about our Subject Blogs?

To view the Subjects Blogs, go to http://lib.hku.hk/cd/news.html or:
1. Go to the library’s homepage at http://lib.hku.hk
2. Click on “News” in the top black bar
3. Select “Subject Blogs”

Our Subject Blogs are available for viewing in your web browser or news reader via RSS/XML. The list of all subject blogs and associated XML feed links are found on http://lib.hku.hk/cd/news.html
《佩文齋廣群芳譜》一百卷 36 冊

《佩文齋廣群芳譜》，簡稱《廣群芳譜》，清劉灝[1703年進士]編，清聖祖康熙47年[1708]內府版，館存為覆刻本。「佩文齋」為清聖祖之宮殿名(另有淵鑒齋、懋勤殿)，名冠書之上，示奉康熙之命編校。如《佩文韻府》、《佩文齋書畫譜》、《佩文齋動物詩選》、《淵鑒齋古文》、《淵鑒齋類函》、《淵鑒齋法帖》、《淵鑒齋摹古寶類》、《懋勤殿法帖》等均是。此書乃是康熙44年南巡江浙時徵納南方賢才入仕，於十月十二日於內廷起居注館宣旨纂輯。由汪灝、張逸少、汪漋、黃龍等人在原本《群芳譜》基礎上進行擴充及刪訂，卷前冠以康熙之序，劉灝進書表，明王象晉原敘、凡例、總目及目錄二卷，原具列各編修官銜名，館本缺。正文順次為：天時(6卷)、穀(4)、桑麻(2)、蔬(5)、茶(4)、花(32)、果(14)、木(14)、竹(5)、卉(6)、藥(8)等十一大類。共釋誌花木草本一千五百餘種，書中、增、彙考、集藻、別錄等均以白文別出，詳述各種植物的形狀、栽培、利用以及歷代詩文題詠，康熙所賦詠的自然均予加入。如有關“水仙”部份，除有關實務紀錄外，即收賦3篇、序文3篇、五言詩9首、七言詩49首、詞17闋，引用作者共61人，引書名13本。文學材料非常豐富。此書存康熙版外，另有同治七年[1868]刊本傳世。

中國被譽為世界園林之母，是栽培植物的起源中心之一，蔬菜種類最多，花卉栽培史源遠流長。歷代民間育苗的無數珍品，不僅豐富了人類農業與精神生活，對人陶冶性情，還推動了社會地方的經濟發展。著名的花卉專著有《全芳備祖》、《群芳譜》、《廣群芳譜》、《花鏡》等，其中以《廣群芳譜》最受歡迎，因有利農圃苑囿，地方花藝依此編撰，平民家園園引川南，教授士雲墨客句句競進，憶及光緒年間仍收載於宮廷的古董書架第三架上，為皇室子弟和大臣隨時借用。回視香港“花展”之陣容形同市集，花訊稀杳，主辦者若早讀此書，翻查“杜鵑花”的資料，或可得營運新意，不至年年如是！
《二如亭群芳譜》，簡稱《群芳譜》，原為明代王象晉所輯，全書共40餘萬字，是一部內容豐富的植物譜錄，總匯了十六世紀及中國各代有關經濟植物的研究成果。單牡丹的記載品種已達185個。[2003年調查全國462個，1949以後培植的佔296個]，在花卉的栽培管理技術上，無論施肥、澆水、除草、治蟲、剪枝整形等均臻於精湛，達到匠心獨具的地步。現今通用的《中國植物圖鑒》、《植物學大辭典》中便收錄了不少譜中的資料。本館現尚存有晚清覆刻汲古閣藏版的刊本，作四眼絲線裝，形製甚可愛！可惜紙質脆薄，多有蟲口，翻時難免招癢，宜再加修補，方可傳閱。

王象晉小傳

王象晉，明山東濟南府新城縣人，字藎臣，號康宇，自謂好生居士，生卒年月不詳，萬曆甲辰32年[1604]進士，曾任中書舍人、浙江右布政使、河南按察使。為官清正，宗室蘭陽王起大獄時，晉力持之，全活甚眾。又盡囊為姚永濟免起復職。濟人利物，常恐不及。年七十退隱林下二十年，享壽九十餘卒。著書數十種，傳世尚有：《翥桐載筆》、《清寤欣賞編》、《秦張兩先生詩餘合璧》等。[參《四庫全書》之《山東通志》卷二十八.人物志]

Pei wen zhai guang qun fang pu：a famous and powerful reference tool for gardening and farming published by Emperor Kangxi of China in 1708 A.D.

This extensive work (at 100 juan in 36 volumes within 4 cases) on double leaves, oriental style, covers 1,580 plants as well as growing methods, with related literary texts. It was written by retired civil officer Wang Xiang-jin 王象晉 over ten years and first published in the Ming dynasty around 1621 A.D. Later, during the Qing dynasty, the Emperor Kangxi ordered it to be republished, and it was revised and enlarged by a number of imperial scholars, becoming in the process a state-of-the-art book in China.

HKU Libraries always strives to enrich its collections to sustain and enhance the excellence of the University. Due to the continuous shift towards electronic formats and reliance on electronic versions, we have increased the proportion of resources spent on the acquisition of electronic information.

HKU Libraries started subscribing to SAGE Full-Text Collections in February 2003. These consist of discipline-specific research databases of popular peer-reviewed journals published by SAGE Publications and participating societies in the categories of Communication Studies, Criminology, Education (new in 2004), Politics and International Relations, Psychology (new in 2004) and Sociology.

These comprehensive databases provide researchers and students with access to more than 220 journals through a user-friendly interface created by CSA Internet Database Service.

Body language skills at work [DVD] (肢體語言的運用技巧) / writer, Angus Robertson; director and editor, Lester Milbank; produced by CFTP, Cambridge Film & Television Productions for Fenman.

This superb training programme comes in two parts: Part 1 covers one’s own body language; and Part 2 covers how to read and react to the body language of those around us. Realistic scenes from a manufacturing company and an NHS Trust follow two very different managers through meetings and situations. After each clip, leading body language expert Judi James discusses the positive and negative aspects of the body language shown.

For over 150 years, the British Architectural Library has accumulated and preserved a collection of architectural works. The Early Printed Books Catalogue 1478–1840 describes in detail the Early Imprints section of the Library, covering some 4,200 of the world’s finest architectural works. The catalogue reflects all areas of architecture and the related arts and sciences – including interior decoration, ornament, perspective, civil engineering, archaeology, local topography, and landscape and garden design. It features a wide range of works, encompassing pattern books, price books, travel books, guidebooks, builders’ manuals and official reports.
Dental Guides & Tutorials

To enhance the Dental Library’s services, Guides & Tutorials related to dentistry and medical sciences have been added to the Dental Library homepage so that teaching staff and students of the Faculty of Dentistry may learn how to use some online databases such as PubMed, Medline, Cochrane Library, MD Consult etc. For details, please visit: http://www.lib.hku.hk/denlib/guidesden.html

UPCOMING EVENTS

Meeting the Author Night

Wild Grass: China’s Revolution From Below
Speaker: Ian Johnson
Date: 5 May 2005 (Thursday)
Time: 7:15pm - 9:00pm
Venue: 1/F, New Wing, Main Library
Language: English

In Wild Grass Pulitzer Prize-winning Ian Johnson describes a China caught between the desire for change percolating up from below and the ossified political structure above. He recounts the stories of three ordinary people who find themselves finding oppression and government corruption, risking imprisonment and even death. A young architecture student, a bereaved daughter, and a peasant legal clerk are the unlikely heroes of these stories, private citizens cast by unexpected circumstances into surprising roles.
